

2017 Global Energy Conference

By the numbers

Save the date for the 16th annual Global Energy Conference
June 6–7, 2018

The Global Energy Conference (GEC), a top industry event for KPMG, just concluded its 15th annual event. Each year, senior energy executives and luminaries gather to share insights and discuss key issues impacting the industry. This year's event titled, "A new world is emerging. Do you have the energy to keep up?" got to the heart of what executives are facing by focusing on the ways that companies can adapt to today's industry issues with an eye toward thriving in the future. The 2017 GEC featured keynotes from John Boehner, Former Speaker of the U.S. House of Representatives, Robin Chase, leading pioneer of the Sharing Economy, founder and former CEO of Zipcar, in addition to Mark and Scott Kelly, highly decorated NASA astronauts and retired U.S. Navy captains.

Attendees Over 600

Distinguished keynote speakers 4

13 media hits, and energy reporters attending
14

24 Countries represented

3 Unique tracks (O&G, P&U, technical)

Moderators/panelists 49

Social media impressions

635,000+

From @KPMG_US

Companies represented Over 200

15 Sessions and panels

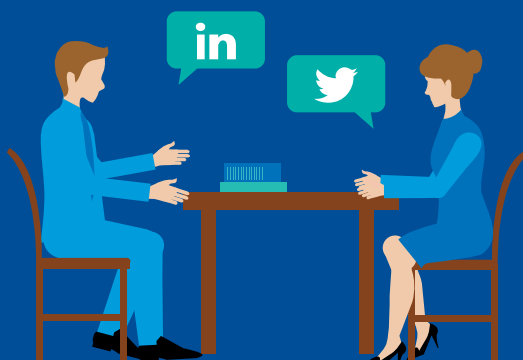

Tweets, retweets & @replies generated Over

723

Social media reach

9.5

million +

Check out discussion from this year's GEC and look for info about next year on Twitter and LinkedIn at #KPMGGEC

*Social media results from May 21-May 28

kpmg.com/socialmedia

